

What About The Proposed Charter?

(To determine just what the proposed charter will do for the city of Kingston, the columns of The Freeman will be open to any question on the document. The questions will be turned over to the Charter Revision Commission for answering and will appear in this column from time to time as they are asked and answered.)

Q.—If we don't have an alderman in each ward, how are we going to get street lights or street work done in our ward?

A. By reporting your complaint to the Department of Public Works. The Board of Aldermen has no authority or power regarding streets under the present charter. The Council is charged with the responsibility of making laws and ordinances and appropriating money, etc. All matters pertaining to streets, lights, sewers, etc., is under the jurisdiction of the Board of Public Works, composed of four members and the mayor. These members are appointed for five year terms by the various wards.

At present, when you complain to your alderman about a street condition, he introduces a resolution at the next meeting of the Common Council, requesting that certain action be taken regarding your complaint. The presiding officer can do nothing but refer the resolution to the Board of Public Works, with the expectation that the complaint, if justified, will be taken care of. These resolutions are then read later in the month at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Public Works. The Board of Public Works may, or may not, comply with the request contained in the alderman's resolution. The Common Council has no authority or power under the present charter to compel the Board of Public Works, or any other board in the city, to undertake any specific work. Only the administrative affairs of the city government are in the hands of the city board.

The nominating committee as so appointed consists of Mrs. Ward Brigham, chairman; Gordon Craig and Lester Elmendorf, as announced by Mr. Goetz. The entire council wish to express its appreciation of the excellence of the picture, "Cardinal Richelieu."

Rates Are Reduced

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (P).—A ten per cent reduction in rates on night long distance calls became effective for telephone subscribers throughout the state today with the substitution of "night rates" for "evening rates." Before today toll calls made between 7 and 8:30 p. m. were known as evening calls and were subject to a discount of about 25 per cent. From 8:30 p. m. until 4:30 a. m. the night rates were effective. Night rates ranged from 40 to 50 per cent below the normal day rates.

Post Checks Flare

Los Angeles, June 1 (P).—Wiley Post noted after planning a final check of his plane today after which he will be ready to take off on another attempt to establish a new transatlantic flight record through the sub-antarctic. He said he would make the fourth attempt as soon as weather conditions are favorable. His first transatlantic venture ended at Murre Dry Lake, near here; the next one at Cleveland, and the last try, several weeks ago, at Lafayette, Ind.

Dead Wrecked House

Tiffin, O., June 1 (P).—A terrific bomb explosion demolished the front porch and badly damaged the home of Charles E. Miller, president of Middleburg College, today. Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their daughter, Gretchen, who were asleep in the home at the time, escaped injury. Every window in the house was shattered. Windows in the science hall of college a block away and nearby residences were broken by the blast.

Cultists In Action

Paris, June 1 (P).—The "golden franc" cultist of Fernand Rondeau went into action today after a last-minute shift which gave Joseph Calliaux, with a reputation as an army wizard, the portfolio of Rondeau. Calliaux, now faced with a task of great responsibility in the present revolutionary regime, replaced Rondeau, who withdrew from the government house.

Robert G. Groves Is Appointed Member of The City Water Board

Former County Attorney Robert G. Groves on Friday was appointed a member of the Board of Water Commissioners to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of James F. Dwyer, president of the board. The appointment has been filed with the city clerk by Mayor C. J. Heiseleman, and this morning Commissioner Groves took the oath of office at the city hall.

Commissioner Groves is widely known as a practicing attorney with offices uptown. He has served the city as special city judge and also as county attorney for several years. He is well fitted for the position of water commissioner, and his appointment will undoubtedly meet with the approval of the city at large.

To Subpoena Records

Chicago, June 1 (P).—The federal government today asked subpoenas requiring three of the country's largest banks to produce their records for the next trial of Samuel Insull, deposed Chicago utility man. Among the witnesses asked to bring in the records were Louis S. Timmerman, vice president of the Central Hanover Bank of New York; James A. Jackson, vice president of the National City Bank of New York; and Abner J. Stillwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

County Oil Bids Asked

New bids for supplying the county with oil have been asked since the recent decision in regard to the NRA has been handed down. County Auditor Ray LeFevre has advertised for bids for fuel oil for the county court house, Tuberculosis Hospital, County Clerk's building and county garage. The contract calls for furnishing oil from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1936. Specifications may be seen at the court house from June 1 to June 7 between 9 and 12 each morning. Bids must be in by 1 p. m. on June 7.

Barn Burns in Flood

Kansas City, Kas., June 1 (P).—It was something like getting the cart before the horse when a barn here was razed by fire here yesterday. Firemen, admitting they never had experienced anything like it, were helpless to fight the blaze because the barn was entirely surrounded by flood waters.

School Budget Reduced, Tax Rate Will Be $7.20, A Cut Of 65 Cents

Perhaps the most important item of business transacted by the Board of Education Friday night, in a long session at which a number of matters of importance were taken up, was the adoption of the budget for the coming school year.

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Tacoma, Wash., June 1.—Little George Weyerhaeuser was released safely by his kidnapers early today after he said $200,000 ransom had been paid by his uncle, F. Rodman Titcomb.

The child was found by a farmer, George Boniface, on his place about four miles from Issaquah, 25 miles northeast of here, and returned to his anxious parents after being in the hands of kidnapers eight days.

The little boy was released about dawn near Issaquah, and said the men who seized him called each other "Alvin, Harry and Bill."

First reports of the release were telephoned to police headquarters here by a man who said he found the boy and was bringing him in.

Titcomb paid $200,000 for the boy's release.

Boniface reported the boy walked to his home about 4 a. m., unharmed and cheerful. He dried his clothing and started for Tacoma after daylight.

Tried to Call Parents

At Renton, Boniface stopped at a gasoline station and attempted to telephone the Weyerhaeuser home. Failing after 10 minutes to rouse the household, he called Tacoma police.

Then Boniface started for Tacoma in his decrepit automobile.

Outside the city limits he was met by John H. Dreher, Seattle newspaperman, in a taxicab.

Dreher gave Boniface back a pair of shoes the farmer had loaned the boy, and brought the child to the Weyerhaeuser home in his taxi. The farmer said he needed the shoes for his daughter, so George made the rest of the trip in his stocking feet.

"Did they hurt you, George?" Dreher asked the boy.

"No, they didn't hurt me because they all kept saying, 'He's too valuable to hurt,'" the boy replied.

"They told me once we were in Oregon, and I remember once we were in Aberdeen," the boy continued.

He said his abductors put him in a trunk while traveling, but said he was not uncomfortable because there were air holes.

George said he had been kept in a house three nights and four days and was allowed to read newspaper accounts of the search for him and his kidnapers.

He said he believed the house he was confined in was about a mile and a half north of Issaquah.

Paid the Ransom

The boy told the newspaperman his uncle paid the ransom shortly before his release.

"Your pa will pick you up," George said he was told as he was let out on the road about four miles from Issaquah.

For hours George walked in the darkness, he told Dreher, until his shoes were sodden and "squishy." George said he thought he walked about six miles before he saw a farm house.

Plodding up to its door he knocked and the farmer, Boniface, opened it. "I'm the little boy who was kidnaped," George told the farmer.

30,000 Believed Dead In Earthquake In India, Rescue Work Goes On

One of Most Tragic Incidents of Disaster Was the Razing of the General Hospital, Killing About 300 Persons.

JACKALS SLINK

Furtive Beasts of Prey Add to the Horror of Dismal Night; Survivors Half-demented.

Quetta, India, June 1 (P).—The number of dead in this earthquake-stricken area was unofficially estimated at 30,000 today as relief work went forward under martial law, proclaimed to facilitate rescue of the injured and burial of the victims.

The bodies of those who died in the catastrophe were burned or buried as soon as they were recovered to avoid the risk of an outbreak of disease.

One of the disaster's most tragic incidents was the razing of the general hospital, killing 200 to 300 patients.

Floods outside the city added to the horror within.

Water gushing from fissures caused by the quake in some places flooded to a depth of several feet.

Fragmentary reports were received of the destruction of nearby towns. An estimated 200 Europeans, including 44 members of the garrison of the British Royal Air Force, were among the victims.

The moans of the injured could still be heard as British and Indian soldiers attempted to reach them. After hours of digging scores of the soldiers dropped in the streets from exhaustion.

Terror of Jackals

Jackals from the surrounding hills slipped into the debris-choked streets last night, adding a new horror to the ruined plateau area.

Shots from the rifles of sentries, answered by shrill wails of pain as the furtive beasts were struck, and the wailing cries to "Allah" by half-demented natives, were the only sounds that broke the deadly silence which hangs over the city.

All structures of the city might well have been of paper, crushed down by a mighty gust of wind sweeping down through the Bolan pass.

The appalling vista of wreckage stretches more than 100 miles including the cities of Kandahar, Mastung, Kalat and Shikapur, and countless smaller villages and towns.

Relief Train Expected

A relief train from Karachi was expected today, bringing sorely needed physicians, nurses, supplies and repair crews.

A temporary relief camp had been established at a race course and on the grounds of the residence, where pitiful scenes were enacted as dazed parents wandered about, stark-eyed, hunting for their missing children.

In the distance towered rocky Mardah, which is Baluchistan for "Mountain of Death."

The most violent of the three shocks in the early morning hours yesterday lasted a full minute, shaking the houses to pieces.

Population Increased

Quetta's normal population of 60,000 had been swelled by people from the lowlands, who had come to escape the intense heat.

Forty-four members of the Garrison of the British Royal Air Force died as the barracks fell. A score more were reported missing, and the victims included at least three European children.

Many who died had run into the streets from their homes, only to be engulfed by the collapsing structures on all sides.

Thousands Homeless

Countless thousands were left homeless, destitute and panic-stricken after the earth tremors crumpled the flimsily constructed houses.

Roosevelt To Bide Time To Get Nation's Opinion On NRA, Observers Say

Clashing Comments Follow President's Hint of Effort to Revise the Constitution as Result of Court Decision.

"STATE'S RIGHTS"

Over 50 Plans for Laws to Replace Blue Eagle Have Been Submitted, Report Says.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON Associated Press Staff Writer.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press) Washington, June 1.—High sources close to the White House indicated plainly today that President Roosevelt is likely to reject all plans for stopgap NRA legislation for the present and await the country's reaction to the question which he posed as the most momentous peace-time issue ever to confront the nation.

Opposing forces already were lining up on the issue, which the President raised in the form of a call to the country to decide whether the federal government shall deal with major economic and social problems or whether they shall be relegated to the 48 states.

Clashing comments followed the President's pronouncement in his extraordinary press conference. His hint of an effort to revise the constitution as a result of the Supreme Court decision smashing NRA aroused opposition among Republican critics of the new deal, and among some Democrats, while others supported him.

Historic Battle Possible

There were indications that the issue, if pressed to the ultimate conclusion, would mean a historic battle, with inescapable effects upon party lines and, in the opinion of many observers, a tremendous influence on the course of American history.

Already the age-old cry of "state's rights" was being raised—with assertions and denials that the Democratic party's traditional stand in favor of such rights was being violated.

Though the President had said that a constitutional amendment was not necessarily the answer to the question he raised, those in favor of rewriting the fundamental law were encouraged. Some high advisers were known to favor strategy designed to make it plain to the country that no effective legislation could be enacted without an amendment to the constitution.

After his press conference, President Roosevelt conferred with Senators La Follette (Wag. Wis.), Byrnes (La. C.) and Wagner (D. N. Y.). In this talk, Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have agreed that Congress should proceed with the previously outlined legislative program, including social security, the Wagner labor relations bill, and the AAA amendments, and make no attempt to rush NRA legislation.

Over 50 Plans

More than 50 plans for laws to replace the Blue Eagle are reported to have been submitted to the President by various people, but none has been selected, so far as is known.

"So far as I know," said Senator Byrnes, "there is no program to draft anything to take the place of NRA at this time."

One of the first results of the President's pronouncements yesterday was a clash between the American Liberty League and Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, over states' rights.

Jouette Shouse, president of the league, said the President "renounced" states' rights "entirely" and sought to "abolish our dual form of government and the system of checks and balances."

He said the decision that the President called for should not wait but "be made at the earliest opportunity." Attacking the President's stand, he said Mr. Roosevelt "condemns a supreme court decision which upset one of his pet plans to assume unwarlike power."

Robinson's statement declared the President "has not renounced the Democratic theory of states' rights at all." He said that "if mining and manufacturing, and even farming, are to be classified as intrastate enterprises merely because the point of production is in one locality, though the products radiate all over the country, the ability of the government to legislate as to purity of food, etc., is hampered if not destroyed."

To many observers it appeared that the administration, in seeking to broaden the issue in the aftermath of the supreme court's decision killing NRA, was appealing, among others, to farmers. They noted that President Roosevelt had emphasized there was danger for the agriculture adjustment administration, as well as the securities exchange commission. If crop control were abandoned, he said emphatically, 25-cent wheat and five-cent cotton would result.

Little Doubt

On Capitol Hill there seemed little doubt that President Roosevelt's statement that the supreme court decision would send the country back to the "horse and buggy" era indicated he would like to have a

22 Persons Are Dead in 4 States Ridden By Flood

(By The Associated Press) Death and destruction lay today in the wake of devastating floods which rode down the plains streams in Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas.

There were 22 known dead in Colorado and Wyoming as the flood waters rolled eastward out of those two states into Nebraska. Two villages in the Republican River Valley of Nebraska were reported wiped out and several others were isolated. Six persons were reported to have drowned near McCook, Neb.

Flood warnings were dispatched down the Platte River Valley in Nebraska as flood waters moved down the north and south forks of the stream.

One man drowned in a creek near Alma, Kas., and two Mexican boys were believed to have been carried away through a storm sewer during a flood of Topeka, Kas.

Cloudbursts forced hundreds of families to move from the lowlands near Sabin, Tex., when a five-inch rain destroyed 50 homes and washed others from their foundations.

More than 5,000 acres of rich farm land was inundated when flood waters of San Joaquin river broke through a levee near Manteca, Calif. The damage was estimated at $200,000.

Alderman Epstein Has Resigned as Member of Charter Commission

Alderman Joseph Epstein today filed his resignation as a member of the Kingston charter revision committee with Mayor C. J. Heiseleman to take effect immediately.

Alderman Epstein's resignation reads as follows: "I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the charter revision committee. I desire that my resignation be effective immediately."

"I have been a member of this committee since its inception and have endeavored to the best of my ability to work harmoniously and in cooperation with the balance of the committee. There were and are various features contained in the proposed charter with which I was not in sympathy and concerning which I have, at various times, been somewhat outspoken regarding my lack of accord. I have consulted with many of my constituents regarding the proposed charter and have been informed by them that they do not favor this legislation in its present form."

"At the last meeting of the charter revision committee, it was urged upon the members that they endeavor to prevail upon the people of the city to support the charter at the election on July 22. In view of the foregoing statements of my personal feelings and of the expression on the part of my constituents, I could not now consistently endeavor to join with the balance of this committee in a campaign in favor of the proposed charter. Therefore, I feel that since it is the expressed desire that the committee endeavor to urge the support of the people in behalf of this charter my resignation as a member of the committee must necessarily follow."

Taxpayers Meeting

A regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association will be held on Monday evening, June 3, at Byrnes Hall, 625 Broadway. The regular business meeting will begin at 8 o'clock, followed by a film talk by Prof. Thomas Adams as speaker. His subject will be "City Planning." Prof. Adams is well qualified to speak on this subject and has been heard in many cities. Taxpayers are urged to hear this talk.

Supervisor Cashdollar of Woodstock said it looked like a "rotten deal" last year when Democratic towns lost $180,500 and Republican towns got but $52,000 and this year the program looked to him worse although he had had no opportunity to study the plan. He asked that his money be divided between two roads and that $2,000 be allocated to road 75-b, that portion of the Sawkill road in his town, and $5,000 on the Wittenberg road known as 91-a. Later in the discussion this was objected to and the request of Mr. Cashdollar was ignored.

Supervisor Terwilliger of Shawangunk said that he believed the present deal was better than he had received under a Republican board

Minority Leader Elsworth Opposes Resolution Questioning Right of Authority by Board To Change Recommendation of Supt.

ROAD PROGRAM

Construction By Towns With the Designated Road To Be Constructed and Apportionment.

A county road construction program was adopted by the board of supervisors in adjourned session Friday evening. The program was adopted by a vote of 17 to 16, the adoption being by a strictly party vote with all 17 Democratic members voting in favor of the program which calls for the expenditure of $221,500 for the construction in 1935 and provides for maintenance the sum of $25,000.

The resolution containing the program was offered by Supervisors DeWitt, Hulsair and George, members of the committee on highway officials.

The money appropriated for construction and maintenance will come from an unexpended balance of $103,599.05 now in the hands of the county treasurer and credited to the County Road Fund and also anticipated revenues which will come to the county during the year. These anticipated revenues are Motor Vehicle Fee money $26,718.49; Gas Tax Money $93,901.74 and money from state under the Lowman act $48,629.10. The balance on hand and the anticipated revenues will total slightly more than the total appropriation for construction and maintenance and will leave a balance in the fund.

There was a considerable discussion during the session when the resolution calling for an appropriation for road work and maintenance was presented. The resolution was opposed by the members of the minority party.

Minority Leader Elsworth, from Esopus said he would oppose the resolution as he questioned the right of authority by the board to change recommendations for construction as made by the County Superintendent of Highways. Mr. Elsworth said that any plan would require the signature of the County Superintendent before it could be submitted to the State Department for approval. He predicted that the program suggested by the Democratic party would not go through as it was unfair and unjust on its face. He said that by looking at the appropriation made any one town you could tell the political complexion of the town, the Democratic towns were getting the larger slice.

Won't Take It This Year

"Last year your County Superintendent was of your own choosing and we of the minority party got a pretty rotten deal, about as rotten as possible to give but we took it on one chin and swallowed it," said Mr. Elsworth in opposing the program. "This year we won't take it. You are going to know where you get off this year," said the Esopus supervisor.

"You can tell the political complexion by the appropriation," said Mr. Elsworth. "Last year you gave your county superintendent $122,000 for maintenance and later you gave him an additional $25,000 under guise of sealing the roads for winter and this year you are giving the county superintendent only $30,000 for maintenance for to last throughout the year," commented Mr. Elsworth.

"Every hole and bounce left in the roads this year for people to ride over will bounce back on the Democratic party for such appropriations as you are now making," continued the Esopus legislator.

Mr. Elsworth then asked that the appropriation given Esopus be split between two roads instead of all spent on one as the proposed program showed. He asked that $5,000 be allocated to Road 51 and $5,000 to Road 82. Both roads he said had work done on them last year and he asked the introducers of the resolution whether they would consent to change their program so as to permit the work on both roads as he suggested. Both Supervisors DeWitt and Hulsair said they had no objection. Supervisor George said that if the supervisor from Esopus wanted to spend the money he was to get less result that was satisfactory to him and the allocation for Esopus was split between both roads.

Return Deal, Says Cashdollar

Supervisor Cashdollar of Woodstock said it looked like a "rotten deal" last year when Democratic towns lost $180,500 and Republican towns got but $52,000 and this year the program looked to him worse although he had had no opportunity to study the plan. He asked that his money be divided between two roads and that $2,000 be allocated to road 75-b, that portion of the Sawkill road in his town, and $5,000 on the Wittenberg road known as 91-a. Later in the discussion this was objected to and the request of Mr. Cashdollar was ignored.

"Heart Balm" Actions Are No Longer Legal

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP).—Legal actions to recover pecuniary damages on account of alienation of affections, criminal conversation, seduction and breach of promise to marry were outlawed by the 1935 session of the New York legislature. A section of the law, which became effective March 29, provided that no legal actions could be instituted to recover damages after a lapse of 60 days thereafter. The time in which suits might be started expired May 29.

"All causes of action to recover a sum of money as damage for alienation of affections, criminal conversation, seduction and breach of contract to marry, which have heretofore accrued, must be commenced within sixty days after this article takes effect," the law stipulates.

Violation of the new law is made a felony punishable by a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $5,000 or by imprisonment of not less than one or more than five years, or by both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

The law contains a declaration of public policy to the effect that such suits should be barred because "the remedies heretofore provided by law . . . have been subjected to grave abuses, causing extreme annoyance, embarrassment, humiliation and pecuniary damage to many persons wholly innocent and free of any wrong doing, who were merely the victims of circumstances;" and that the legal remedies heretofore have "been exercised by unscrupulous persons for their unjust enrichment" and have furnished "vehicles for the commission or attempted commission of crime, and in many cases have resulted in the perpetration of frauds."

Disarmed Crime Object of Drive By British Police

London (AP)—Alarmed by a marked increase in the number of crimes of violence within a year, England is taking drastic measures to weed out all manner of firearms, from the vicious sub-machine gun to the comparatively innocent sporting shotgun. Every person in England possessing a weapon of any description—even a war trophy—has been ordered to report it to the police. Sanction to keep them is given in some instances, but thousands of pistols and rifles have been taken up.

So thorough is the campaign that auctions of arms have been forbidden. Under existing law the ordinary shotgun is excluded from all restrictions, but legislation is pending to bring it within the fold. British criminals have learned all about what a shotgun will do when its long barrel is saved off.

As announced, a unique refining process has been introduced by the Gulf Refining Company which offers motorists a new, improved, and premium quality lubricant for 25c a quart. This motor oil, the new Gulfube, gives more mileage and better lubrication in any kind of weather. The new process, known as the Multi-oil Process, removes practically all impurities from the oil. The method is simple, yet effective. Just as a housewife takes a stain out of a beautiful fabric with a cleansing fluid, so the Multi-oil Process "washes" out the undesirable tars, gums and sludge and carbon-forming materials. By the introduction of two solvents into the procedure, impurities are dissolved and separated from the oil.

Cleveland.—Mrs. Henry P. Livran is going to keep her 31 dogs no matter what the neighbors say. She made that clear to the dog warden.

Mrs. Livran said the dogs represent the offspring through three generations of an Irish terrier that woke her up on many years ago when the house was on fire.

"I've been discharging my debt to him ever since by taking care of his progeny," she said. "No new neighbors are going to tell me what to do."

Beer For Baby?

Chicago.—On the matter of beer for the baby, Francis Smith said "yes," but his wife said "no" and the court, where the question came up, said nothing.

Mrs. Smith had Francis up before Judge Finnegan on a petition for temporary alimony. Her attorney said that whenever Francis has custody of the baby, Ronald, one-year-old, he gave the child beer. The father's attorney said he saw nothing wrong in that.

The judge declined to rule, but he did order Smith to pay $6 a week.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JACOBSON

New York, June 1 (AP).—A rally in the metals gave the stock market a lift today just before the end of the brief session. The market, previously, had pointed downward as traders attempted to analyze the President's views of the NRA court decision. The close was rather irregular. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

A mild revival of inflationary thoughts, and expectations that the administration will resume its silver buying on a larger scale, may have helped some of the mining stocks. U. S. Smelting got up more than 4 points, and Cerro de Pasco and American Smelting firmed more than 1 each. The utilities and rails were resistant throughout.

Moderate support appeared in other groups near the finish, but losers of fractions to 1 point or so included du Pont, U. S. Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical, Case, May, Corn Products, Columbian Carbon, American Sugar Refining, Amerasia, Seaboard Oil and Liggett & Myers "B". International Business Machines was down about 6 points and Cuban-American Sugar Preferred recorded a decline of more than 4.

Memorial Day At Woodstock

Dr. Mark O'Meara and Judge Joseph M. Fowler delivered addresses at the Woodstock Memorial Day services, when a living Christmas tree on the village green was dedicated to the late Dr. Downer, who for nearly half a century was the township physician and the benefactor of hundreds of friends and acquaintances.

Judge Fowler's speech. I take it a privilege to represent the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and especially on such an occasion as this, although I am fully conscious of the fact that I am taking the place of one of the men who would much more adequately have filled it. Judge Hasbrouck regrets, as do we, that another engagement which could not be postponed, prevents his being here today.

The general history and purposes of the Red Cross must be well known particularly to us older folk; the name of Clara Barton will never be forgotten. During the civil war she organized a voluntary organization for the care and help of the sick and wounded in the service, in keeping the men in touch with their families, and seeing that the graves of those who died were properly marked.

Following the war she went to Europe and there became acquainted with a similar work carried on under the name of the Red Cross. Upon her return to the states she organized the American society which in 1881 became affiliated with the international Red Cross, and through her efforts, her country came under the provisions of the Treaty of Geneva and she was the author of the so-called Am. amendments to the international charter which provided that the Society should distribute relief not only in war, as theretofore, but also in times of such calamities as famines, floods, earthquakes, cyclones, fires and pestilence.

Nearly every locality has its branches or chapters, the county being generally the unit—hence the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross.

It is therefore appropriate that on this Memorial Day or Decoration Day, we are calling to mind and have in mind those who, like Clara Barton, and her associates and successors, were engaged, not as combatants, but in works of mercy and help. Shall we not remember the work done by the women and men associated with the Red Cross not only in our wars, but during the other catastrophes.

But to this day and to this place we seek to give a particular significance. For years, among the loyal and active members of the Ulster County Chapter none stand out more prominently than your townsman and townswoman, Dr. Mortimer B. Downer and his wife. Many of you people have told me of the devoted service that they gave over long periods of years to the sick and unfortunate not only of the immediate locality but into adjacent towns as well; and I have reason to personally know that he called upon them by the Red Cross for services, materials, money or otherwise was ever made without a ready, prompt and gladly given response. Dr. Downer and his wife have loved humanity; it has been well said—They serve God well, who serve his creatures.

Few indeed are there who have more fully served than those whom we today honor, the wife in the flesh, and the husband by recalling him to mind in this public ceremony. They sought and expected to recompense for the services to the Red Cross and through it to God's creatures, and we can give none, but in the memory of Dr. Downer and his services and as a reminder of the services of his wife we are most happy to join with you today in the presentation of this tree in order that his memory be kept green and as a mark of our esteem and affection.

Dr. Mark O'Meara spoke as follows:

Doctor Downer was not only intensely loyal to his profession but was able to inspire loyalty in those associated with him which is demonstrated by the fact that nearly all the physicians in this county were very friendly to him. All through his life he was fearless in upholding the things that he considered right. His diagnostic ability was of a high order. He was also a fine teacher as shown by instruction given by him in the nursing classes at the Benedictine Hospital. He was always very faithful. No day was too stormy for him to come down if he was due to give a lecture on that day. His clarity of thought and clearness of expression made the subject under discussion readily understandable, and his deductions were as logical and convincing as sound that they impressed his hearers.

Doctor Downer kept himself thoroughly up to date and was in many ways in advance of his time. To those who knew him intimately it is needless to speak of his kindness, his interest in the people who were his patients, and the promptness with which he always responded to their calls. Doctor Downer will go down in Woodstock history as a county man ever respected by the strong principles of high Americanism. He was a rare combination of forcefulness and sympathetic kindness and I believe no more fitting description can be given of Doctor Downer as a man than by summing up in these few words, "Doctor Mortimer Downer, physician and gentleman."

Looking back over his completed life we are impressed with his great vision, his consideration for his fellow men, his appreciation of the way to advance human welfare and his untiring energy and industry. His memory commands our respect and admiration for the manner in which he worked to the end with the same spirit and determination which characterized his long and useful life. We honor his memory as one of the great physicians of this state.

John A. Chaloner Dies In Virginia Hospital After a Long Illness

JOHN ARMSTRONG CHALONER

Charlottesville, Va., June 1 (AP).—John Armstrong Chaloner, wealthy and colorful master of "Merrie Mills" in Albemarle county, died in the University Hospital here near midnight after an illness of many months.

A three-word telegram, "Who's looney now?" made John Armstrong Chaloner known from coast to coast. The bon mot, addressed to a brother, epitomized a sensational quarrel in one of the country's oldest families.

Chaloner's family name was Chanler. He changed it June 1, 1908, to an old form after the quarrel with his brothers and sisters became bitter. His father, John Winthrop Chanler, was a lineal descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, governor of the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam. His mother was Margaret Astor Ward Chanler, a granddaughter of John Jacob Astor, and he was born in the old Astor mansion, Lafayette Place, New York, on October 11, 1862.

Chaloner's brothers were Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, former lieutenant governor of New York; Robert Armstrong Chanler, ex-sheriff of Dutchess county; William Astor Chanler, who was distinguished in the Spanish-American war; went to Congress as a Tammanyite and made a name as an African explorer, and Winthrop Astor Chanler. His sisters were Mrs. John Jay Chapman, Mrs. Richard Aldrich and Mrs. Temple Emmett.

Each of these eight brothers and sisters inherited wealth. Chaloner's share being estimated at $4,000,000 when in 1897 his brothers Lewis and Winthrop and Arthur A. Carey, a cousin, joined in having him committed to the Bloomingdale asylum at White Plains. They testified he was incapable of managing his own affairs.

Chaloner remained in the White Plains institution until 1909 when, with $10 given to him by a friend, he ran away, made his way to Philadelphia and entered a private manicomium. There the staff doctors adjudged him sane.

A year later he turned up at Charlottesville, Va., under the name of John Chillon. Virginia and North Carolina courts pronounced him of sound mind and in 1904 he started a legal battle to regain control of his property. The struggle lasted 15 years for it was not until July 16, 1919, that the supreme court in New York made a finding in his favor. His net estate at that time was estimated at $1,500,000, yielding an income of about $100,000 a year.

It was four years before this final victory and while Chaloner was in the south, still under the lunacy law in New York, that his brother Robert got into marital difficulties. The latter had married Lina Cavallieri, a Italian opera diva, and when she obtained a Paris divorce in December, 1911, it was revealed that her husband had mortgaged New York real estate for $200,000 to meet the expenses and settlement of the case. There came then from "Merrie Mills" down in Albemarle county, Virginia, the famous three words: "Who's looney now?"

Robert Armstrong Chanler recipient of the famous telegram, lived at Woodstock for many years and provided the colony with a robust color.

No Definite Plans For Van Ross Hotel

Interesting Story Of John K. Lencke

A story is told of John K. Lencke, president of the Apollo Magneto Company, who announced yesterday that his company is to manufacture a new device for perfecting the pitch of airplane propellers. Mr. Lencke, whose native state is Pennsylvania, was working for his brother years ago and happened to be in Wheeling, West Virginia, at the time of the historic Johnstown Flood. The brother, whose home was in Reading, was a newspaper editor. During the crisis of the flood all communication with the outside world had been shut off from Johnstown. The pair, in order to get to the devastated city, dressed as workers of the wrecking crew and managed to get into the city by this method.

Once within the city they set to work gathering data. Lencke then marched eight miles to the nearest telegraph station that was in operation carrying dispatches compiled by his brother and himself and won for himself the distinction of being the first to give the world a first-hand inside story of conditions in that city.

Hoosier Had Tray of Coins for Departing Visitors

Because of the difficulty of travel in South and Central America, before the coming of the railroads and the opening of highways, on the country estates the owners always looked after the passing traveler, as hotels were unknown; and, as this had its defects as well as its advantages, for the traveler was dependent upon the good will of his host as well as on the size of his establishment. Most of the reports which have come to us show, however, no lack of good will.

"It is said that more than one wealthy man used to keep his gold stored in the attic, uncounted, but ready to loan to friends without interest or security. There are descriptions, also, of early travelers in California being sent off on the best horses belonging to the hacienda where they had stopped for the night; and apparently it was the fashion for the hacienda to leave a tray of silver coins, covered with a cloth, on a table in his guest room, from which one might draw, but was not expected to take more than enough for immediate need.

Even before the United States took over the government in California, in 1948, this practice had nearly disappeared, because of unscrupulous travelers and promoters from the states who had not hesitated to misuse Spanish hospitality. Such has been the fate of many fine old customs.—Washington Post.

Life Span Growing Longer

During the 50 years beginning with 1880 the population of the United States of America increased 146 per cent as shown by the census of that year and of 1930. But the number of persons over sixty-five years old increased approximately 600 per cent during the same period. This lengthening of the life span is not due wholly to improvement in medical science, sanitation and living conditions generally, observes a writer in Copper's Weekly. Restricted immigration and a declining birth rate also have had their effect. There were nearly 2,000,000 persons over sixty-five years old in a population of 122,500,000 in 1930.

Oil of Tree Valuable

Recent discovery by chemists indicates the oil of the cotton tree is probably destined to play an important role in the future of the progressive cotton industry of the world. The tree which grows wild in the valleys of Asia and Africa of South America, lives to be more than 100 years old and reaches a height of 30 feet or more. The seed or kernel of the fruit contains about 60 per cent of a fairly thick-colored oil resembling tallow oil in color and in many of its chemical and physical properties. It will probably be used largely in the manufacture of soap and candle.

Committees Named On Board of Education, Contracts Awarded

With the exception of Trustees Kearney, all members were present at the meeting of the Board of Education Friday night, including Trustees Walker, Schmid, Byrne, Katz, Craig, and Mathews and President Beers.

At the opening of the meeting President Beers announced the appointment of the following standing committees for the coming year: Building, Walter, Byrne, Kearney, Finance, Craig, Kearney, Feeney, Rules, Byrne, Schmid, Walker, Supplies, Katz, Craig, Schmid, Teachers, Mathews, Feeney, Beers.

Contracts for Coal Awarded. The first matter of business taken up was the opening of bids for supplying coal, fuel oil, books and paper for the year. Bids on approximately 550 tons of pea coal and 250 tons of buckwheat were received as follows:

Kingston Coal Co.: Pea, $9.30; Buck, $5.55 ($1.10 discount for payment with invoice), or Pea, $7.80; Buck, $3.00, if unscreened and paid for in advance.

The bids were referred to the supplies committee. Chairman Katz and members of his committee retired to discuss the various bids. On their return they presented a motion that the contracts be awarded to the lowest bidder. The Independent Coal Co. bid $6.88 per ton for pea coal and Leon Wilber, $6.15 for buckwheat coal. The contracts were so awarded.

Bids For Fuel Oil. Numerous bids were received for supplying fuel oil for school use the coming year. Largely, if not in all cases, the bids followed NRA requirements, although some were heard to remark that they thought that had been done away with.

Mostly bidders quoted a top price of 7 1/2 cents a gallon, with a present posted price of 6 1/2 cents, a reduction of one-fourth of a cent if 10,000 gallons were used and another reduction of one-fourth if 50,000 gallons were used. Bids were:

Phelan & Cahill, 5.52 cents; top 5.83 cents.

Harry Kolts, 5.75 cents.

Promer Petroleum Co., 6 1/2 cents; top 7 1/2 cents.

It was decided that there was no urgent need to decide the matter of oil contract and it was referred to the supply committee, who are to report at the next meeting of the board.

Other Contracts Awarded. For furnishing general supplies two bids were received. Livingston & LeFever agreed to furnish the various articles required, as per specifications submitted, for $2,297.31.

William O'Reilly's bid was $2,247.07 and being the lowest, was accepted.

The contract for supplying the school with paper also went to William O'Reilly, who bid $992.71 against a bid of $1,040.73 submitted by Livingston & LeFever.

William O'Reilly bid $337.34 for supplying library books required. There was no other bid and as the offer was considered fair it was accepted.

The finance committee reported pay-roll for May of $35,682.24 and bills amounting to $5,692.35. The report was approved and drafts ordered drawn.

Following the custom of some years past the supplies committee was authorized to purchase text books during the year direct from the publishers. The same committee was empowered to investigate the condition of the Board of Education truck and if in their judgment it was necessary to exchange it for a new one.

The teachers committee brought in a resolution of appreciation of the work done by Miss Grace Holmes, a valued teacher in the Kingston schools for the past 34 years and previous to that a teacher at Fort Evans. The resolution was adopted, ordered spread on the minutes and a copy sent to the family of Miss Holmes.

It was decided to have Haskin & Sons audit the books, as has been the custom. The rates committee

State Campaign Against Tent Worms Takes Shape

Albany, N. Y., June 1 (AP)—An extensive campaign to rid New York state of tent caterpillars was rapidly taking shape today under direction of Agricultural Commissioner Peter G. Tom Eyck.

The commissioner planned to confer in New York City over the week-end with Frederick I. Daniels, executive director of the TERA, concerning immediate aid in checking "the worst infestation in years."

He recently appealed to the director for aid, saying that farmers cannot afford to hire help to eradicate the pest.

At the same time, Tom Eyck sought the cooperation of conservation and highway department workers in destroying the pest during their regular duties.

He also appealed to farm bureaus throughout the state to aid in the campaign.

City Lays New Type Of Street Pavement

The Board of Public Works for the first time in its history has built what is known as a retread pavement on that section of Hasbrouck avenue, between Grand and Garden streets. This is the type of pavement being used on some roads by the state highway department and the county. The old pavement is first covered by the scarifier and graded and then crushed stone is dumped on the street and spread. This same is then sprayed with asphalt. The scarifier then goes over the street again turning the stone over and again it is sprayed with asphalt. This is continued until all of the crushed stone is covered with asphalt. The stone is then spread out on the street to a depth of two inches and then rolled with the steam roller.

This type of pavement is a cheap and convenient method of street building, affording a good type of pavement, and in addition it is possible to use all local labor on the work.

This section of street has been built as an experiment, and if it proves successful undoubtedly will be used on other streets in the city.

Fifteen bathing beaches and pools, all protected with life guards, and provided with facilities for public enjoyment, are included in the New Jersey and New York streams of the Palisades Interstate Park.

June Allotment for ERB Fixed at $53,000

The local emergency relief bureau received word this morning from the State TERA that the June allotment to carry on home and work relief in Kingston had been set at $53,000. This is a reduction of $2,000 from the May allotment which was $55,000. The material allotment, however, is left at $9,950, the same as in May.

In order to clear up any misunderstanding it should be understood that the State TERA fixes the amount which the city is allowed to spend for relief which the city will be reimbursed up to 75 per cent of the $52,000. In other words the State TERA will reimburse the city an amount not to exceed $39,250 during June.

At the ERB headquarters it was stated that this allotment will not reduce the amount to be spent for work relief but will decrease the amount to be expended for home relief during this month.

Man Is Found Nailed to a Cross

High Point, N. C., June 1 (AP)—Nailed to a rough, board cross with ten-penny spikes through his hands and feet, J. R. Riggs, a middle-aged filling station operator, was found beside the highway near his rural filling station today.

The cross lay upon the ground and besides the nails a wire passed around the boards and his neck bound him to the crude cross.

P. A. Walls, of High Point, passing along the road, came upon the scene about 5 a. m. and called police and an ambulance.

Riggs was clad only in his underwear.

Walls and the police removed the nails and Riggs was carried to a hospital. Attaches there said his condition was not serious.

The filling station operator told police he was taken from his station where he was sleeping by three men and nailed to the cross.

Officers A. C. Ward and George Royals who removed the nails with pliers, said that while they worked, Riggs threw the trio into his room, threw a towel over his head and told him:

"You've been so good we're going to nail you to a cross. If you yell, we'll shoot you."

Ward was unable to learn from Riggs if any of the men had been recognized or were masked. Gaston Johnson, prosecuting attorney, went to the hospital later in the morning to learn all possible of the affair from the victim.

The three intruders removed him by force from his room, Riggs was quoted by Ward as saying. They walked him to the spot where the cross lay, tied the wire about his neck, nailed him down, yanked the towel from his face and fed the scene.

Roosevelt To Bide Time on NRA

constitutional amendment. Reaction was varied. While Senator Borah (R-Ida.) said congress had "ample authority to do all the things we ought to do" and that an amendment was unnecessary unless it was proposed to "wipe out the state entirely," Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico called for a convention to "reform the constitution to meet conditions of 1935."

After a conference with the President, he said at the annual American University dinner that the supreme court decision had "tied the hand of progress, and held up the wheels of government."

"We need to consider how the constitution can be made to meet the needs of this hour," he said.

Little Chance For Change
Senator Nye (R-N. D.), an NRA foe, said there was little chance for an amendment, and Senator Clark (D-Mo.), another critic, added more emphatically, "I promise you there will be no constitutional amendment."

On the other hand Senator Cogan (D-Col.) had introduced a proposed new amendment, and his close friend Senator Byrnes was sympathetic. Senators Coughens (R-Mich.) and Norris (R-Neb.), also were friendly to the idea, though Norris suggested that before it were ratified "we might all be dead."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—They are in the background of the movie world, the men and women of the research department, but pictures could not be made without them. For every movie that goes before the camera, they spend from days to months ferreting out information that will keep the film true to its setting and time.
In connection with history, science and literature they search for minute information on varied subjects, and they pass it on—often in the form of a story—to the writer of the picture. Much of it is so unobtrusive that it would be noticed if its omission created an error. Fans are seldom aware of the research department's existence.

Orchids Common!
It may not matter to the film director, but "Orchids to You" research disclosed that more than 100 species of the flower grow wild in the United States and Canada, and every state has at least one. And, they will tell you, the common lady's slipper, mosses, ferns, and grasses are among the genuine orchids. (But try one on a chorus-girl!)

Tobaccoists may know it already, but research for "The Little Colonel" can tell everybody that cigarettes were first smoked in the United States in 1860. (The picture was dated later, but researchers must look at a period for a picture.)

It's a common error in "Civil War" films to put 36 stars in the Union flag. "So Red the Rose"—so research says—will be correct, with only 34 for 1863, although there were then 36 states. (The star of a new state was not added until the Fourth of July following admission.)

Platinum Blonde Camels.
Silver was rarer than gold in ancient Egypt (says "Charlie Chan in Egypt"), and the Nile people developed a "cheaper" substitute, alloying silver with gold to form alchem.

Research suggested this idea for the same picture; camels in the Egyptian Camel Corps of the British army are beautiful periodically with bleaching baths, coming out a bright platinum blonde. (But that was a bit strong even for Hollywood—and research was hooted down.)

Four miles an hour was the speed limit for canal boats on the Erie and it cost $10 to violate. (For "The Farmer Takes a Wife" research learned that pocket captains, sky dogs, used to pay their fines in advance to avoid delays by the sheriff.)

No flag is flown on the stern of a British steamship except when passing another vessel or entering port. (Research checked that for "Black Sheep.")

But do these researchers always go around amazing their friends with conversational items? They do not. They are too busy researching.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, May 31.—The Rev. Arnaldo Natino made his second appearance as speaker at the Baptist Church at the service held following Sunday School classes. There was a pleasing attendance, including a group of visitors. Several appropriate musical selections were rendered by the choir led by Mrs. Genevieve McLean. Miss Helen Thompson presided as regular organist. Preaching services will again be held next Sunday at 2 o'clock. "A Message from Cape Cod" will be the topic to be presented by the Rev. Mr. Natino. On Sunday, May 19, the speaker attended the "Centennial Anniversary" of a Baptist church on the cape, where he was a former pastor. His subject is expected to prove of much interest. Everyone is most cordially urged to be present. Special singing selections also will be featured. Sunday school at 1 o'clock preceding the church service.

Schuyler Weldner, eldest son of the Rev. David Weldner of New Hyde Park, L. I., is spending a few weeks with his uncle and aunt, Judge and Mrs. Fred L. Weldner, of North Main street.

Aartsen Van Wagenen and friend, Dicker Craver, of Kingston, were among social callers of the week-end. Jerry Van Kleeck, the well-known Tabasco Heights farmer, was a caller at West Shokan Heights, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmoekel of North Main Street Heights have opened their popular "The Green Hen" hostelry, and are entertaining a number of guests.

The West Shokan, Bushkill and Boiceville schools, combined in making a sightseeing and educational bus trip to West Point on Saturday. The route coming and going was over the scenic Storm King highway. There were 52 in the party which included several high school students. During the morning the students collected and other wonders of the museum were viewed. The afternoon was spent admiring the cadets and attending a track meet. On the return trip a stop was made at Washington's headquarters at Newburgh. The day was ideal and all had a very wonderful time.

The reservoir country is enjoying real summertime weather of late but refreshing rains are very decidedly lacking as yet.

Donald Bishop and friend, Louis Wilson, of Harcourt College, Oneonta, were here on a week-end trip.

Mrs. Jerry Van Kleeck and stalwart son, Winston, of Tabasco Heights, were recent local evening callers.

Judge Fred L. Weldner and visiting nephew, Schuyler, made a trip to Albany on Tuesday.

The formal seasonal opening of the Bushkill Inn and dance pavilion took place Saturday evening. The hostelry has been newly repainted inside and out, also several changes made for greater convenience. Improvements about the grounds likewise add to the general attractiveness.

Congratulations are delightfully extended Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Schults of Olive Bridge, proud parents of a son born Saturday night. Dr. Hans J. Cohn is the attending physician.

Olive Rebekah Lodge, No. 470, will hold its fifth birthday anniversary at the time of its first Thursday in June meeting on the 6th. Visiting members will be cordially welcomed.

Town trucks are still hauling loads for road covering from Mrs. Ole Burgher's abundant source of supply at West Shokan Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mooney of Kingston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every, at Traver Hollow Sunday.

Miss Edna Gesner, R. N., is spending a week at her home in Olive Bridge, after completing her first year at Columbia University, New York city.

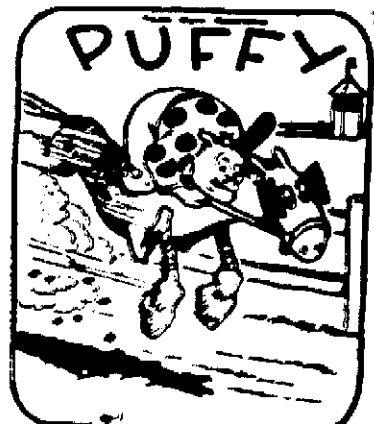

PRAIRIE DOGS STARVE IN DRY TEXAS DISTRICT

Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—Prairie dogs are starving to death, probably on account of sand and dust storms combined with drought, reported John M. Hill, Jr., of the U. S. biological survey on the south plains.

"On the Boles ranch we found 20 dogs lying dead. Just skin and bones. We ran down one and killed it. Two other we captured died before we could examine them," he said.

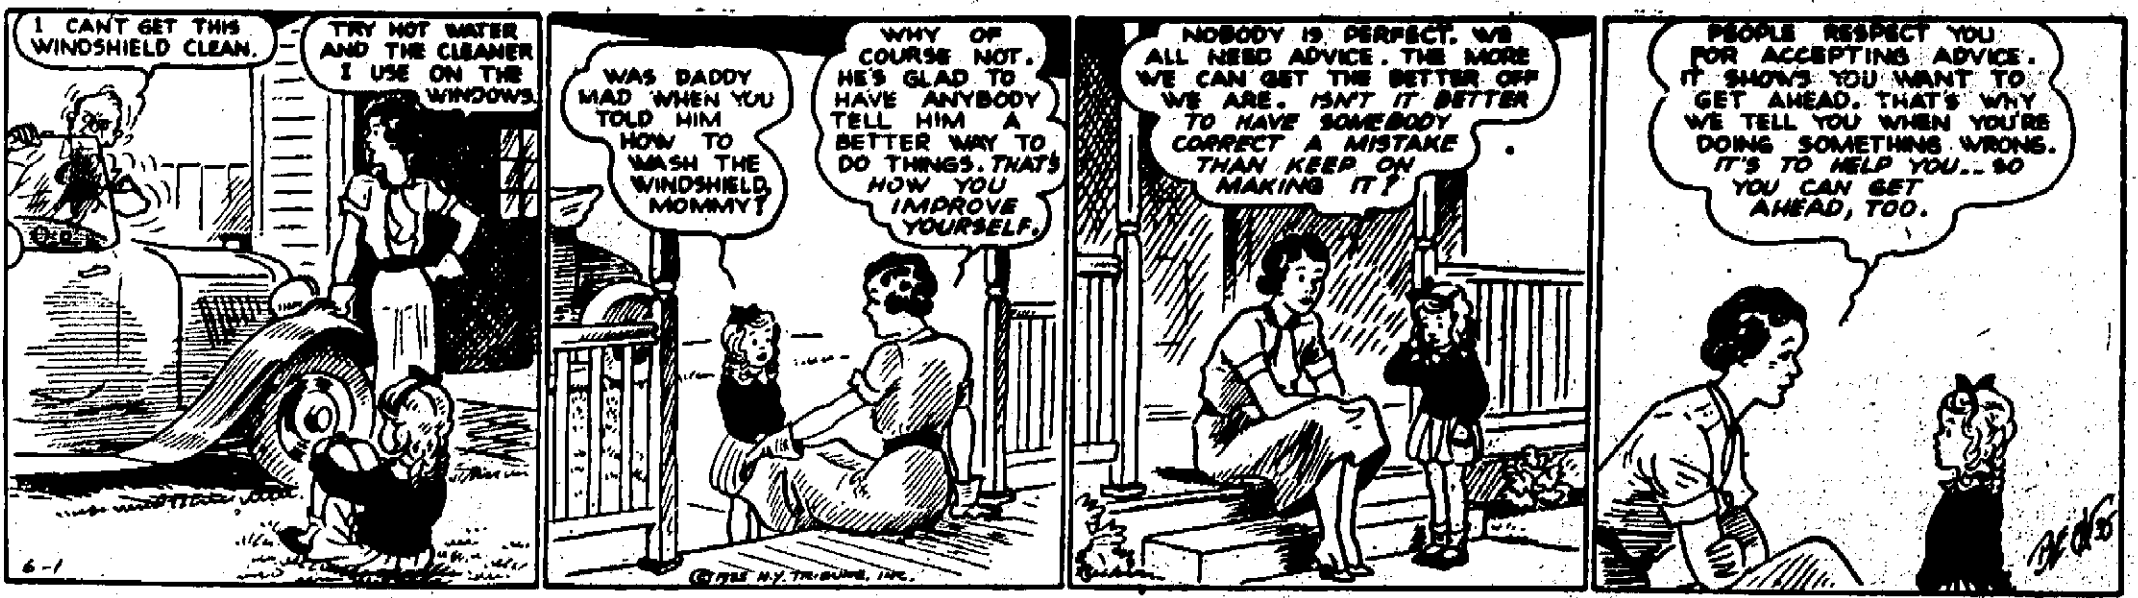

Color Inspires Soviet Savants. Moscow (AP)—Bright colors have been selected for the decorative effects of the huge Institute of Experimental Medicine to be built here, on the theory that they inspire optimism and courage. The Institute building is to be spread over 1,150 acres, will have living quarters for 12,000 people and space for hundreds of laboratories.

GAS BUGGIES—Setting the Example.

New Paltz Normal School Activities

Wednesday a group of the presidents, treasurers and faculty advisers of various organizations met with the budget committee to discuss the expenditures for the next school year. Frank Cuccia, who is at present chairman of the committee, was in charge of the meeting. There were 44 members present. Principal Lawrence H. Vandenberg was also present and answered many questions. With Dr. Vandenberg's consent two new organizations have been handed in budgets, band and orchestra as one organization and Ko Sdon Ya. In order to meet financial situations more satisfactorily next year there may be an increase in the registration fee.

Alfred Deniarest, Dick Thomson and Molly Elzpatrick were chosen representatives to Student Council at a meeting of the Junior class held last Monday. Officers were re-elected for the year. The attendance at the meeting exceeded 125 class members which included several who are now doing their practice teaching. A financial report was given of the Junior prom. The class has $35 as a result of this dance.

The 1935 yearbook, the "Paltzonian", is due from the printers this week.

Selective admission examinations were given for entrance to Normal Schools throughout the state last Saturday. New Paltz Normal School was responsible for those people from New Paltz, Middletown, Kingston, Long Island, Patchogue and Yonkers. Those of the faculty who assisted in giving these tests were: Dr. Roland G. Will and Miss Gertrude Thompson at Patchogue. Emory Jacobs and Miss Mary Ellen Rich at Middletown. Miss Dorothy Giddings and Miss Ethel MacFarlane at Kingston. Benjamin H. Matteson and Miss Ruth E. Jones at New Paltz. Edgar V. Beebe and Miss Gertrude E. Strobel at Yonkers.

Introduction of new members was held at the last meeting of Epsilon Delta Chi. Those taking the pledge were Louis Gluckman, Doris Wallace, Adalyn Hookman, Louise Travers, Doris Woodworth and Louise Wright. Philip Townsend, eligible for entrance, was unable to attend and will enter later. Those elected in office for the coming year were: President, Louis Gluckman; vice president, Mary Smith; corresponding secretary, Adalyn Hopkins; recording secretary, Eleanor Lewis; treasurer, Enzo Politi. ARTISTIC COIFFURE BRINGS BEAUTY OPERATOR $10,000

Denver, (AP)—Forty-five years ago, in the pre-permanent wave days, a woman was given a coiffure which has brought an early day beauty operator the sum of $10,000.

Sadie L. Freamer, who received the cash, recalled the time, nearly a half century ago, when she put the utmost of her artistry into the coiffure of Mrs. Lena Allen Stolber, wife of Edward G. Stolber, said to have taken more than $3,000,000 in silver from the mountains.

In the recent filing of the will of Mrs. Stolber was brought to light the bequest, "To Sadie Freamer, 501 Lafayette street, $10,000."

CACTUS HEDGES ADVISED TO HALT WANDERING DOGS

Topeka, Kas. (AP)—Topeka flower lovers may turn to cactus to obtain what they could not get at the polls—relief from dogs overrunning their posies.

Topeka almost overlooked city candidates on the issue two years ago when the flower faction attempted by referendum to prevent dogs from running at large. The cause lost.

Now comes Lad Cutak, St. Louis botanist, as an advisor. He guaranteed the planting of cactus hedges—both to improve "beauty" and to discourage canines want to wander among the pansies and tulips.

DANISH GAS DEFENSE PLAN OMTS MASKS AND CELLARS

Copenhagen (AP)—No gas masks or gas-proof cellars are included in plans for the protection of Denmark's civil population, drawn up by the gas inquiry commission after 18 months of research.

As an alternative, it recommends close collaboration among the country's fire brigades, police, life-saving and rescuing corps, and the Red Cross, whose members would be exempt from active service in war.

The report evoked surprise, as gas masks made in Danish army factories have been on sale in drug stores for two years and gas-proof rooms in dwellings have been advocated.

PATTERN 5369. Some people think everything that grows wild is a weed. But the person who knows and loves flowers and the artist know that many of our wild flowers are exceptionally lovely. Fringed gentian—columbine—lupine—aster. To mention but a few—what a riot of color they present—what beauty of form. In these patterns Alice Brooks has collected some choicest wild flower sprays. You'll enjoy embroidering them in their true coloring of household linens. A lovely touch with a different spray at each corner and one in the center of each edge—a bedspread with sprays in alternate squares—these will add greatly to the attractiveness of your home. You can make each spray on a separate square if you wish and join these into scarfs, tea cloths and bedspreads. This makes practical pick-up work. The pattern contains a pattern for a patch piece to cover the seams of the squares. It gives the effect of a twisted ribbon as shown. You can, of course, omit this if you wish. There are six different sprays in each pattern. One pattern will make a variety of articles: two patterns are needed for larger linens and bedspreads.

In pattern 5370 you will find a transfer pattern of six sprays averaging 6 x 8 inches and a pattern piece for the ribbon effect; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; color suggestions. Price of pattern 10 cents.

In pattern 5374 you will find a transfer pattern of six sprays averaging 6 x 8 inches and a pattern piece for the ribbon effect; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; color suggestions. Price of pattern 10 cents.

To obtain these patterns send 10 cents each (20 cents for both), in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 233 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

allower prints in scattered floral designs appear frequently in such charming styles as the one pictured here. This model is done in a green background with the pattern printed in a golden tan shade.

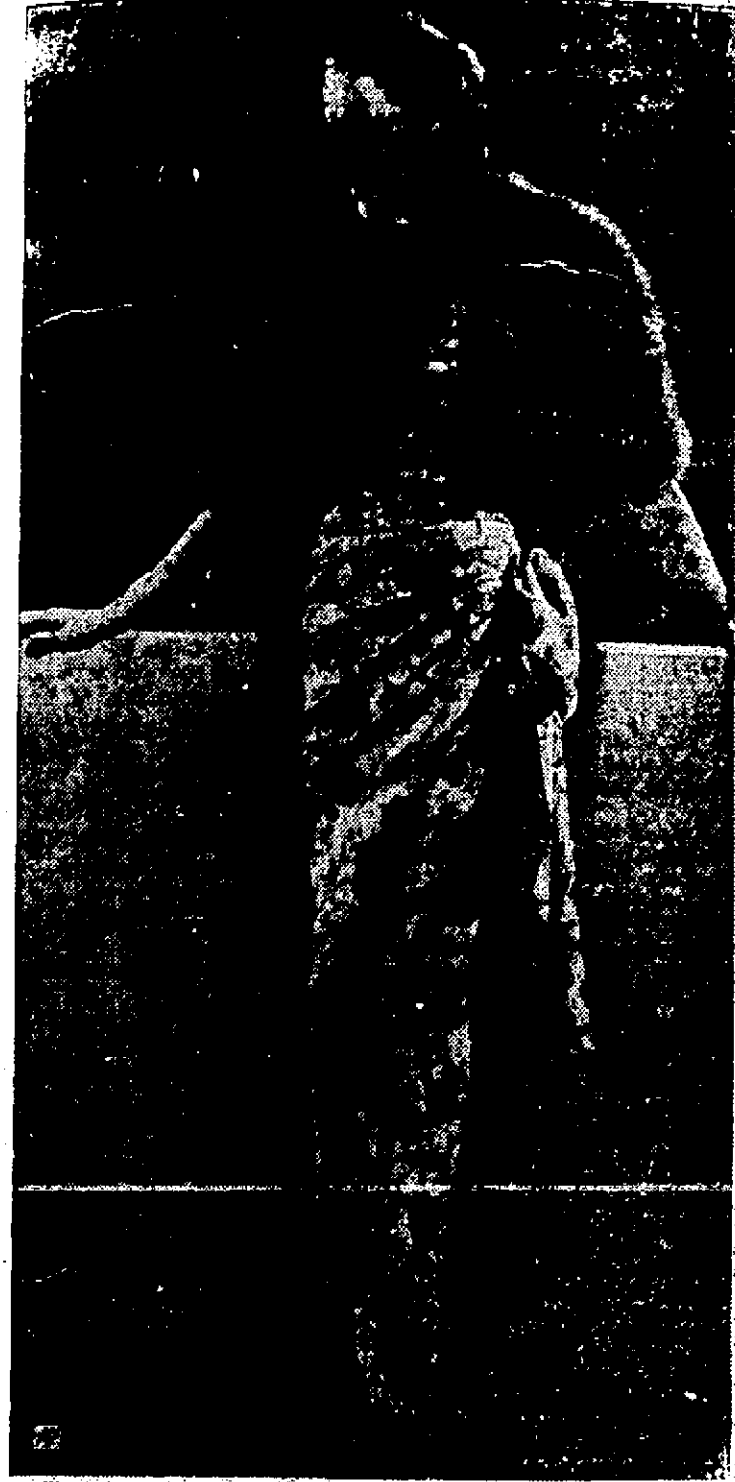

The one-piece dress has a draped skirt section, cap sleeves and full bodice at front only. The front bodice is very full and flared through the ingenious arrangement of the skirt styling, which is a top-arate piece, tucked under the self-belt. Rows of fastening trim the shoulder-line and novel twin clips are used for an effective finishing touch.

The chic hip-length jacket hasen smartly open at front and features a stitched border and collar, also bell shaped, bracelet-length sleeves. A cluster of pink plants at center front provides comfortable width at the hemline.

Bird, Fruit And Lobster Shakers Hold Salt And Pepper These Days

Modern classic touch to find in table accessories.

By MARGERY TAYLOR

(Copyright, 1935, by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman)

The new salt and pepper shakers are a good example of what the clever designer can do with the humblest accessories.

They have even given shakers the new "modern classic" touch—the small, white fluted columns of bakelite are in perfect harmony with the slim handled silver and Greek key bordered china of the new table style. For those who never know whether it's salt or pepper until they've given the first shake, the perforations in the flat chromium tops in the forms of the letter "S" and "P" will be welcome.

To rival the popular cherry shakers of red, green and yellow bakelite, with the chrome stems and leaves, there are the new fruit-shaped shakers of clear glass—pear for the salt and apple for the pepper. They come in blue, amber, green, amethyst, ruby and crystal, the stem and leaves being in opaque white glass. They have no stopper; they fill and shake from the bottom.

Gay birds in fine china may be had in white, primrose yellow or coral pink—lively for table or breakfast tray.

New shakers shaped like mushrooms are appropriate for the luncheon table. Children will like the realistic painted china Scotch terriers. For the lobster feast, there are shakers in the form of small red lobsters standing on their tails.

Very modern and clever are the half-cylinders of satin brass, their perforations, in helpful letter form, being in the ends instead of the tops—and the two halves fit into a whole compact cylinder.

Do's and Don'ts That Help to Make a Wardrobe Becoming

By BARBARA BELL

Yes, we admit it—keeping a home running smoothly doesn't leave you much time to think about clothes. Which is all the more reason for planning them as carefully as you plan those "three well-balanced meals a day," as conscientiously as you count the laundry, and as cleverly as you manage the thousand and one other things that combine to make this business of being a housewife the most exacting of all professions.

Because—while nobody has less time than the matron, nobody needs more clothes. Well selected ones, too, especially if your figure has slipped a bit, and you'd rather not advertise the fact. There are lots of suitable, smart and slenderizing fashions being shown this season, but you do have to hunt for them, and separate them from the many types which are too youthful, too fuzzy, or perhaps too perishable to suit your needs.

Watch out for these danger signals if you wear a "40" or above: high necklines that tend to foreshorten the figure; wide belts that call attention to the waistline; buttons down the front from neck to hem—diagonal, or surplus coverings are even so much more slenderizing; flaring peplums that are never kind to hips; too-short skirts and too-light stockings.

Now for the "do's" and "don'ts" that help to stretch a limited budget to cover a generous summer wardrobe. If you sew, you're in luck, because clothes made to fit the individual figure look expensive, because you can choose better fabrics for less money, and you can make up a fattering style in your most becoming color. An entire wardrobe of washable fabrics can be superlatively smart, as well as practical, what with the new cottons that are processed against shrinking and the linens which have been rendered much less crushable. Be partial to wrap-around frocks: they're easy to slip on for an early breakfast and they can be ironed with speed. Short sleeves are grand any hour of the day; they're cool, smart, and are out of danger of soiling when hands are busy about the kitchen. (Copyright, 1935, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

OUTDOOR FASHIONS SHOW FEWER "SUNBURN" OUTFITS

London (AP)—Sports pajamas are smartly cut in coarse linen. "Coal-heaver" hats to protect the back of the neck from sunburn are worn with them. There is a noticeable absence of shorts in beach outfits now on display.

Outdoor fashions indicate a departure from the sunburn vogue of the past few seasons. A beauty specialist prophesied: "I think it highly probable that the sunburn craze will die out this summer. Many women find that a deep tan does not suit them, and I can predict a return to the traditional English complexion quite soon."

COTTON OF IMPORTANCE FOR SEASON'S SMARTEST FROCKS

By BARBARA BELL

All the little silk worms must have wept their eyes out when National Cotton Week proclaimed cotton as a material of such great importance to the summer mode. Cotton has come out of its obscurity. No longer is it confined to making the strictly utilitarian garments of a summer wardrobe, but it has become very sophisticated and in fascinating new weaves and colors, is used in making the season's smartest frocks.

Rough weaves, the cotton shanings, seersuckers, nubby cotton laces, and materials of crash-like surface, are very prominent. Colors become more and more arresting. Wine red contests with the brighter berry shades for first place. Purple and all the lilac and violet tones are much in demand. Heavy crash-like materials are very often in natural color, and it is apparent that navy blue continues to be the greatest favorite of the smart woman.

BANDS OF MINK TRIM MUSLIN FROCK

Paris (AP)—Cotton and fur are combined to make a new evening gown which Princess Jean Louis de Faucigny Lucinge is wearing. The frock of white eyelet-embroidered muslin has a deep hem bounce of white organdy at the top of which runs a band of mink. White organdy ruffles rim the shoulder line.

Chintz Bags To Match

Gardening Suggestions.

By THE MASTER GARDENER

The month of May with its many gardening chores is past. I hope you're making good progress, concentrating on the really important things first. A neighbor asked me what I meant by really important things. Well, I always rank lawn work as number one for it's the foundation of any landscape project. So, if you have neglected the lawn to work on your flowers, plan to get that in shape right away. It's important, for hot weather will slow down growth of grass. Unless you have already reseeded it is probably best to wait now until we are through the midsummer hot spell. But right now you ought to give your lawn a square meal. Apply complete plant food at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet and soak it in well.

Are you under the impression that lime is a plant food? Well, it does contain some calcium which plants can utilize, but lime's part in the gardening scheme is not that of a food. It's purpose is to correct soil acidity or as we old timers used to say, "sweeten" the soil. Don't use lime year after year on your lawn without having your soil tested. Blue grass prefers a soil that is slightly acid whereas weeds flourish in a sweet or alkaline soil. I've seen a lot of beautiful lawns taken over by weeds because the continued application of lime made the soil conditions more favorable for their growth than for that of grass.

I can still remember how I treated special plants with bone meal or tankage in the long ago days when barnyard manure was plentiful. I recognized that bone meal was a better fertilizer because it had more plant food in it. Later I turned to potash salts, superphosphate and various forms of nitrates for the same reason. . . they had more plant food in them. That's the thought I would like to leave with you. Find out how much plant food you're getting for your money. Of course the kind of plant food you get is important, too.

Today I'm using a complete plant food, one that contains all of the elements which scientists have proved to be plants must get from the soil. I use mineral plant food exclusively because it gives me growth control. I can put it on my lawn or flowers and know that the food is almost immediately available for the use of the plants. It is more economical than an organic or so-called natural fertilizer. As far as organic fertilizers adding humus to the soil, the average gardener can't afford to use enough to add any quantity of humus from this source. Clean, undecomposed peat moss, or your compost pile are the most satisfactory sources of humus.

Test made by a prominent mid-western university showed that clipping the lawn had much to do with the development of its root system.

'Star' Gardener

Elissa Landi, Hollywood actress, is a real dirt gardener. She grows her own flowers and vegetables and tends to them herself. She is shown here in a bed of California asters of which any back-set gardener would be proud.

Don't let your grass grow higher than three inches and never cut it shorter than one and one-half inch and you'll encourage sturdy, deep growing roots.

Watering, too, has a bearing on the development of roots. Soak the lawn every time you water it so that the tendency of the roots will be to go down after water. If you do this, watering once or twice a week should be sufficient. Frequent light sprinklings cause roots to turn up, resulting in shallow-rooted lawns of low resistance.

Whether you are putting in a vegetable garden for its economy or because you wish garden-fresh vegetables, remember that quick, steady growth is important. Feed the garden regularly with a complete plant food at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet or one pound per 25 running feet.

Feminine members of a household often need a built-in vanity within reach of the bath, to hold lady's accessories. There could be no more luxurious toilet than to reach from a steaming tub and find one's favorite soap, cold cream, or astringent. Glass or porcelain shelves placed on the wall at the side of the tub and low enough to be within reach, or at the end of the tub, resting on the rim, are popular with decorators. Chromium or glass shelves blend with the modern bathroom, or they take the place of wood and painted a suitable color.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION IN TURKEY DISSOLVED

Ankara (AP)—The chief women's movement organization in Turkey, the "Turk Kadın Birliği" or Union of Turkish Women, is being dissolved by the government which considers it purporters now that women have been granted political rights.

As a result, Mme. Latife Bekir, the president, must resign her presidency of the International Committee of the International Alliance for Women, as members of the committee must represent a national organization.

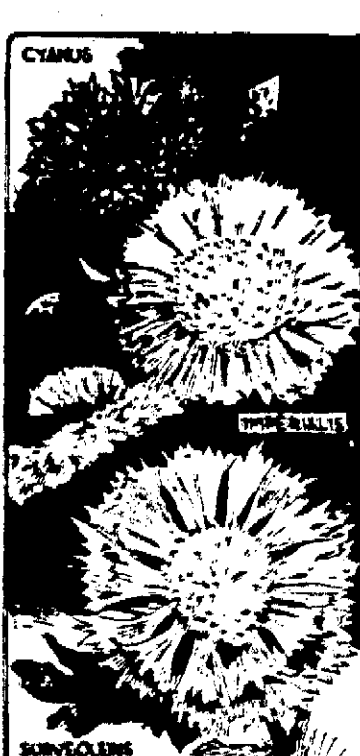

Dwarf asparagus and even asparagus are an effective edging combination.

Cornflowers have been popularized in the florist trade and are probably better known under that name to the flower buying urban public than they are to gardeners who more commonly know them under their old fashioned name of bachelors' buttons.

Botanically they are centaureas and there are annual and perennial forms of very different appearance, but nearly all of value in the garden. The annual centaureas are of two kinds, cyanus, the common bachelor's button, known as the national flower of Germany, and the sweet sultan which includes centaurea imperialis and sea-centaurea.

The annual bachelor's button in white, pink, light and dark blue and purple is one of the oldest annuals and often escapes and runs wild along roadsides. While it has handsome bloom and is fine cutting material the plant is poor of foliage and little decorative value in the garden. A row in the vegetable garden for cutting in its best use.

The sweet sultan is a handsome plant both in flower and foliage, but it is not of the hardy growth of its relative. Tommy Berardi's Catch Enables N.R.S.C. To Edge Out Hercules

Tommy Berardi, fleet outfielder, no doubt can have anything he wants in North Rondout, especially at the Social Club, today, for he made one of the greatest catches of the season in the Hercules-North Rondout Social Club game at the Athletic Field, Friday evening. He raced almost to the sidewalk on Cornell street to grab a ball that "Ding" Van Etten hit and in doing so robbed Van Etten of a ball that was labeled home run when it left the bat and gave the Rondouters the contest, 2-1.

At the time Van Etten hit the ball Harry Houghtaling was perched safely on first base and at the crack of the bat started around the bases. He was on his way to third when he found out, much to his dismay, that Berardi caught the ball and it was too late to get back to first. He tried hard, but was doubled off the sack, to close one of the best ball games in the City League so far.

The victory brought the Rondouters up a peg to tie the Hercules for third place in the league standing. The first four teams now are all in a jumble, only one game separating them.

Although Berardi stole the show in the last inning, he had plenty of competition for honors, because up until that time the fans were enjoying a real pitchers' duel between Eddie Scherer of the Hercules and Phil Komosa of the Rondouters.

Scherer displayed a carload of stuff and had the Rondouters popping up flies all night. Only two of them were able to connect for clean hits. But he showed a streak of wildness at times and this is what ruined him.

Komosa was at his best in the pinches. He was nipped for six hits and was in plenty of tight spots. Almost every inning the Powdermen had men on the bases, nine in all being stranded.

Bobby Cullum also distinguished himself by hitting a home run, for the Powdermen's lone tally. It came in the sixth inning and tied the ball game up in a knot at 1-1. Cullum's hit wiggled by Manello in left field when he attempted to make a shoe-string catch.

The Rondouters' first run came in the fifth inning. Scherer hit Gardner with a pitched ball and Lewis sacrificed him to second base. He dented the rubber when Nardi singled down the third base line.

Scherer lost control again in the sixth inning and put the winning run on the base paths by walking Turk. Turk advanced to second on Tiano's sacrifice and registered when Houghtaling erred on Komosa's grounder.

SIDELINERS

The Rondouters got a break in the first inning on one of the most freakish plays seen in baseball. Nardi fumbled Quest's grounder, but the ball rolled over to Mitchell, who was laying on the ground with his foot on second base and he picked it up with his bare hand to force Houghtaling who was running from first.

Houghtaling had quite a time all by himself for a spell. He caught five fly balls in a row.

Phil Komosa besides hurling a good game contributed a lousy triple.

Bobby Cullum will receive the first case of Burgomaster donated by the Fitzgerald Bros.

To prove how interesting the battle was the fans ignored the rain which came down quite hard for a couple of innings.

Jack Lovelock, the celebrated New Zealand miler from Oxford, is planning to depart from his usual racing plan of merely trying to win and is going to run against the watch in an effort to regain possession of the world's record for the mile when he meets Glenn Cunningham, Bill Bonthron and Gene Venzke in the feature event on the Princeton Invitational program in Palmer Stadium on June 15.

With a fair break in the weather, all conditions necessary to insure a new record will be at hand. Cunningham—holder of the present record of 4:06.7—Bonthron and Venzke will give Jack all the competition he will need to produce a new mark on the lightning fast Princeton track, and perhaps a little more, for it is by no means certain that the great New Zealand runner can beat this trio to the tape.

Cunningham, because he boasts the fastest time, will be favored to win but Lovelock has proved himself to be one of the greatest competitors in the history of track. His repeated victories over Bonthron stamp him as a great "money" runner, one who generally is as good as he has to be to win.

Lovelock established the mark of 4:07.6, which Cunningham erased last summer, on the same Princeton track two years ago when he beat Bonthron in the Oxford-Cambridge vs. Princeton-Cornell meet.

Donny Back at Nassau

Since that time the New Zealander has undergone an operation on his knee which for a time threatened to end his foot-racing career. His recent efforts in England bear out the reports that the under-pinning is as sound as ever and indicate that Lovelock must bear watching in any company over the mile route.

So keen is Bill Bonthron on winning the race is record-breaking time that he has returned to his old haunts at Princeton and placed himself in the hands of his former coach, Matty Geis. The former Princeton captain has resumed the routine of his undergraduate days in an effort to regain the speed and blazing finishing "kick" which carried him to a new world record in the 1,500 meters while scoring a pair of triumphs over Cunningham in the National collegiates and the national A. A. U. championships.

Bill has definitely decided on making this his parting fling on the cinders and he would like to make his last race a grand gesture before his admirers on the scene of his many triumphs as a varsity track man.

Venzke in Great Shape

Bonthron found out last winter that he could not match strides with Cunningham and Venzke on an irregular training schedule after office hours. Back in the old familiar surroundings where everything is conducive to putting him in the best possible condition, he should be ready for the best effort of his brilliant career when he takes his mark.

While not many track followers will concede Gene Venzke very much of a chance of heading Cunningham, Lovelock and Bonthron to the tape, the Pennsylvania junior enjoys a decided edge over the other competitors in the matter of running real races this spring.

Competing in numerous dual meets and intercollegiate races, the former holder of the world's indoor mile mark has raced himself into rare condition. He has turned in a number of sparkling efforts, particularly in the half-mile where he has shaded 1:54.

The beautiful-striding Pennsylvanian is a most popular figure with track followers and while not many rate him as the likely winner he will nevertheless be the sentimental favorite with many in the stands.

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

XVIII. SCHMELING VS. STRIBLING—1931

In Cleveland's mammoth municipal stadium, on the shore of Lake Erie, William Lawrence (Young) Stribling, the little pride of Georgia, failed in his bid and only bid for the world heavyweight championship.

The bout was held on the night of July 3, 1931, and Schmeling was declared the victor on a technical knockout when Referee George Blake of Los Angeles stopped the fight with only 14 seconds to go in the 15th and last round. The gross attendance was 27,326 and receipts $249,415.

Stribling, subjected to a severe body beating from the start, weakened badly in the last half of the fight. The Southerner gave one of the greatest exhibitions of his career but was decisively whipped. He had taken a count of nine in the 15th round and was reeling about the ring, unable to defend himself, when Blake halted the match.

Rumors were rife before the bout that Stribling had hurt his right hand in training. His performance lent credence to this for he seldom employed his right with any effect on the bruised, ragged German.

Two years later, in October, 1933, Stribling died as a result of injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident near his home town of Nacogdoches, Ga.

Ten Leading Batters In the Big Leagues

(By The Associated Press)

New York, June 1 (AP)—While the batting leaders of the two major leagues had their hands full maintaining the .400 clips they had set for themselves earlier in the season, the spurts of a couple of lesser lights furnished the interest in the clotting race during the past week.

Both of them represented St. Louis clubs. Rolfe Hemsey of the Browns, who couldn't get into the "first ten" in the American League a week ago, had climbed to second place after yesterday's games as he hoisted his average more than 25 points to .352 with 13 hits in 30 times at bat. Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, who had one big day at the plate in Thursday's doubleheader, added 20 points to his National League average with nine blows in 20 times up.

In contrast the American League leader, Bob Johnson of the Athletics, lost 17 points as he connected safely 12 times in 34 attempts, winding up at .404 and Gerald Walker of Detroit, who had been second to him, dropped 49 points to .326 and seventh place.

Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh's National League pace setter, hit ten times in 23 attempts, lowering his mark one point to .401.

The ten leaders in each major league follow:

STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

The Chicago White Sox, who led the American League through the greater part of May almost without challenge, seem to have run into some of the evil days that have been predicted for them.

They began to wobble a bit when they began their eastern jaunt in the middle of the month, the hitters slackening their pace and the pitchers showing less steadiness. As a result they have won only six and lost eight of 14 games since then and even had considerable trouble providing "silent" John Whitehead, eight-game winner on the mound, enough runs to gain his last few victories.

The Sox dropped into second place Thursday when they divided the holiday bill with Cleveland and skidded into an even more precarious position yesterday when they "blew" a 6 to 2 decision to the Indians. That left them a game and a half behind the Yankees, whose game with Boston was rained out, and only one game ahead of Cleveland.

Vernon Kennedy, pressed into service as a starting hurler, got poor support on all sides. Marty Hopkins, subbing at second for the injured Jack Hayes, made three errors which figured in the scoring of the first three Indian runs and with Al Simmons on the bench recovering from a leg ailment and a batting slump, the Sox gathered only six hits off Clint Brown and Mel Harder.

The feats of the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati's second game under the floodlights rounded out the day's brief program with about equal interest.

Giants Increase Their Lead

The Giants slammed out a pair of victories over the cellar dwelling Braves, 15 to 3 and 4 to 2, extending their winning streak to seven games and stretching their lead over the idle Cardinals to 5½ games. Their 15 runs and 22 hits in the opener represented their best one-game production of the season and every player contributed to it.

The Tigers, after a narrow escape at the hands of the Browns, took undisputed hold of fourth place in the American League, moving ahead of the Red Sox. Trailing 5-1 going into the last half inning after Joe Sullivan had weakened toward the finish, Goose Goslin, who had been benched for weak hitting, assumed the hero's role in a five-run ninth inning rally when he cleaned the bases with a pinch double after Bob Weiland had filled them by walks, then scored the winning run on Manager Mickey Cochrane's two-bagger.

The Reds drew another good sized crowd, 19,429, for the second night game in big league history, but found it less of an artistic success than the first when the Pirates won 4 to 1 in a mound duel in which Bill Swift of Pittsburgh and Al Hollingsworth of Cincinnati each allowed six hits.

Goose Goslin, Tigers—Hit pinch double with bases full in ninth and scored winning run in 6-5 triumph over Browns.
